Dear Colleagues,

Unpleasant routines up to e.g. Covid-19... Stressors are taking their toll on our patients and on us. How to build up resilience, how to bounce back to a lighthearted everyday life with ease?

I am grateful to announce Prof. Dr. Raffael Kalisch, Leibniz Institute for Resilience Research (LIR), Mainz, as our next speaker in the Missing Link series.

In his talk “Stress Resilience – missing link in a disease/deficit orientated therapy?” he will explore the neurobiological basis of resilience and outline approaches for everyday scenarios up to clinical applications.

As this topic may be of interest to many of us and as the loosened Covid-19 regulations allow scientific exchange in person again, we are especially pleased to invite you to this live event at the MTI lecture hall.

Covid-19 regulations still apply (see below). Thus, please register early via email to:
